Raptors outshine Nash, Suns

The Toronto Raptors held local hero Steve Nash in check as they crushed the Phoenix Suns 129-78 in NBA pre-season action yesterday night. It was the first game of the exhibition campaign for the Raptors, who wrapped up their six-day training camp in Vancouver before heading home to Toronto. Nash, a former two-time league MVP from Victoria, was limited to nine points in just over two quarters of play.

Mountie faces probe for pot, firearms

Constable suspended with pay Officer cannot be named to protect identity and the case's integrity Investigation was initiated on Oct. 1

An RCMP officer is under investigation for allegedly possessing a small amount of marijuana and a number of firearms.

No charges have been laid.

The constable in question, who's been a member of the Surrey RCMP for four years, has been suspended with pay. He has not been named.

"The investigation … is ongoing and is being pursued aggressively," said Chief Supt. Fraser MacRae, head of the Surrey RCMP.

"Any time a police officer is accused of being involved in criminal activity, these allegations are taken seriously."

Lane disappoints local merchants

Construction on separated lane began yesterday City warns of delays, especially in next two weeks

JEFF HODSON
@METRONEWS.CA

While cycling groups applauded Vancouver's decision to create a separated bike lane along Hornby Street, a group that represents businesses said it is disappointed, but not surprised.

Late Tuesday, Vancouver's council approved the construction of a $3.2-million separated bike lane trial to connect the False Creek and Coal Harbour seawalls.

Construction began yesterday and should be complete by the beginning of December.

"I thought they might have heeded our suggestion not to proceed with Phase 2 until they did a more detailed analysis of the impact Phase 1 is having on Dunsmuir Street businesses," said Charles Gauthier, executive director of the Downtown Vancouver Business Improvement Association.

"The only way we're going to grow our economy is by increasing transit, cycling and pedestrian access into the downtown core."
MAYOR GREGOR ROBERTSON

Arno Schortinghuis, president of the Vancouver Area Cycling Coalition, said the separated lane is "hugely important" for the city because it will increase the amount of cycling and help create a "more vibrant city."

"I think, if this proves successful, we'll see way more of these separated bike lanes throughout Vancouver," Schortinghuis said.

ANIMAL CRUELTY

Mutilation of cats still a mystery

RCMP are still seeking a culprit after the grisly discovery of mutilated cats throughout the Lower Mainland during the past few months.

"We haven't found anything to indicate who might be responsible (for the cats' deaths), or why they may be carrying out this act," said RCMP Sgt. Peter Thiessen.

Three cats which had been "severed" in half have been found in South Surrey. There have also been reports of similar incidents in White Rock, Langley and Kelowna.

Police want anyone with information to contact White Rock RCMP or CrimeStoppers.

Metro reaches 1.4 million readers

Metro Canada's position as the country's most-read and fastest growing national daily newspaper was confirmed by the 2009-10 NADbank readership survey released yesterday.

Across Canada, Metro is now read by 1.4 million daily readers and 2.9 million people every week.

In Vancouver, Metro has more than 180,000 daily and 436,000 weekly readers.

Maryse Lalonde, Metro Vancouver Publisher, said she's happy to see Metro maintain its readership level when compared to NADbank 2008-09.

"I'm especially thrilled to have gained so much traction in our key demographic of readers aged 18 to 49," she said.

"We saw an 11 per cent increase while all other newspapers in this market lost ground."

Chief wants citizens to investigate cops

More expensive to have sergeants investigate: Chu

JEFF HODSON
@METRONEWS.CA

B.C.'s proposed civilian-led police complaints office should investigate all allegations against police — not just serious incidents, Vancouver's police chief claimed yesterday.

Chief Const. Jim Chu said expanding the mandate of the Independent Investigative Office (IIO) to handle all police complaints would save money and would eliminate the perception of police bias.

$804,000
Chu said the cost for professional standards investigations has almost doubled to $804,000 a year due to a rise in the number of complaints that can be made against officers under the province's new Police Act.

The government announced in June that an IIO would be created to investigate serious police incidents and deaths in police custody.

Solicitor General Michael de Jong said Chu's comments are welcome, as the legislation to establish the IIO is drafted for the spring sitting of the Legislature.

"The Vancouver Police Department has come a long way along this continuum," de Jong said.

"I think his remarks today were really helpful."

House of Commons toker wants to legally munch medicinal pot

An Abbotsford man who blazed a J in the House of Commons said there was no bylaw that precludes him from smoking medical marijuana in Canada's lower house.

Samuel Mellace lit the joint Monday in the House and was quickly and quietly asked to put it out, which he did.

Mellace said he was protesting the fact that people like his wife, who has lung cancer, cannot legally eat marijuana.

"Health Canada is concerned about making hash and oil from it, but all we want to do is bake and cook with it," Mellace said, adding that his methods include making marijuana butter to cook with.

"It is a very safe method. There's no way a house can blow up."
SAMUEL MELLACE

Mellace was diagnosed with a liver disease in 1999. At first he was put on other painkillers, including opiates.

The treatment, he said, was brutal on his body. In 2002 he switched over to using medical marijuana.

VCC autobody grads colliding with success

Collision and refinish program has been running for nearly 60 years
Around 500 students trained annually

▶ VCC instructor Rory Morrison at the Broadway campus yesterday.

If you ever get into a nasty fender bender, you may want Robert Scholtens to take care of your car.

The recent graduate of Vancouver Community College's collision repair and refinishing program has come in first and second in two skills competitions for his ability to fix crumpled and crunched vehicles.

"I've liked cars pretty much my whole life," said Scholtens, 24, who now works at Pine Tree Autobody in his hometown of Powell River.

"I was excited to learn about all the new metals and how cars are designed nowadays compared to old technology. Cars are a lot safer now."

Rory Morrison, head of the program, said it gives students a leg up in the industry because after completing the courses, they can earn a Level 1 trades credit and hours toward their mandatory 400 apprenticeship hours.

"VCC has grown with the industry and its industry partners to provide students with the highest quality (education). There's rarely a shop I visit that doesn't have VCC alumni employed."

Vancouver Trolley Company's visitors get tour of city's spooky underbelly Guides dress as gruesome ghouls

KRISTEN THOMPSON
@METRONEWS.CA

Ever wondered how an autopsy is conducted or where the city's most grisly murders took place? Starting tomorrow, you can find out.

The Vancouver Trolley Company's haunted tours are back for another season — after a hiatus last year — offering brave souls a glimpse into the spooky, seedy side of the city.

The popular tour takes visitors through Vancouver while their spooky host tells gruesome tales of real-life ghost stories and famous murders.

Stops include Mountain View Cemetery and the autopsy room at the Vancouver Police Museum — the former site of the city morgue.

"It's the nitty-gritty, behind-the-scenes (stories) that happened in Vancouver," said Sarah Haffey of the Vancouver Trolley Company.

Haffey said at least one person every year faints during the autopsy session.

"Halloween is one of those holidays where people want to be scared," she said.

The two-hour tours cost $35 each and run at 5:30 p.m. and 8 p.m. from Wednesday to Sunday.

All aboard

- Stanley Park's annual Halloween Ghost Train also kicks off tomorrow and runs nightly until Oct. 31.
- The train starts at the Children's Farmyard and follows Alice through Nightmareland — a dark forest with demonic playing cars and a Queen with an axe to grind.
- For more information visit vancouverparks.ca.

Haffey said guests should book in advance because tours sell out. To reserve a tour call 604-801-5515.

Vancouver doing its best New Jersey

If Halloween costumes are any clue as to what Vancouverites watch on TV, it would appear we like reality shows and train wrecks.

"Jersey Man" and "Jersey Girl" wigs — ostensibly for The Situation and Snooki costumes — are a hot commodity this season, according to Debra Pearson, Value Village Coquitlam's Halloween co-ordinator.

Last year, it was Kate Gosselin wigs, Michael Jackson outfits and balloon boy costumes that were flying off shelves.

Pearson also said costumes that reflect the '50s style — like the Pink Ladies from Grease – are popular this year, as well as Twilight characters.

"Men still want to be pirates," she said, adding the Pirates Of The Caribbean hype is still going strong.

Little boys are asking to be Avatar characters, while little girls are abandoning the traditional princess and fairy costumes for spookier outfits like dead brides.

"I love helping people with their costumes," Pearson said. "It's like a scavenger hunt, it's fun."

Pullout will hurt, top NATO officer tells Canada

- It 'couldn't be at a more critical time,' says Bellon
- Military experts fear Afghan insurgents will return

Canada's planned withdrawal of troops from Kandahar next year threatens to undermine progress being made in the volatile Afghan province, a senior NATO officer said yesterday.

The Canadian withdrawal "couldn't be at a more critical time," said Col. Dave Bellon.

Coalition and Afghan forces in Kandahar have in recent months launched a multi-pronged offensive against Taliban insurgents.

Many see the operation, dubbed Hamkari, as the international community's last chance to bring stability to southern Afghanistan.

"If you tell me I'm going to lose a star player, I'm going to say 'Sure, it hurts.'"
COL. DAVE BELLON, COMPARING HIMSELF TO A SPORTS COACH

Bellon, NATO's chief of operations for southern Afghanistan, indicated it will be impossible to replace Canada's more than 1,000 combat troops without diminishing forces elsewhere in the country.

"I'll shoot you straight, it's going to hurt us," Bellon said.

"There is no other country that is going to come in and backfill Canada in Panjwaii, except the United States, and there are no additional forces (in Afghanistan).

"That means we're going to take an already stretched force and stretch it farther."

Military planners fear the insurgents will be able to return to the areas where they've been chased from.

Though Bellon stressed he was speaking for himself and not NATO, it is a poorly kept secret that the organization is actively lobbying Ottawa to rethink its plans to end the combat mission in 2011.

Traders profit from stolen American goods

Looted U.S. wares in high demand along the road to Afghanistan • Scores of markets have sprung up

In a rundown market along the road to Afghanistan, you can buy U.S. Army gear stamped with soldiers' names, booklets marked "for official use only," even a manual that illustrates how "jammers" can stop remote-controlled bombs.

The traders in Peshawar, Pakistan are coy about where their stock comes from. But it's clear much of it is stolen from trucks carrying military supplies over the border.

Raids on warehouses where the looted goods are stockpiled have even turned up photos mailed to U.S. soldiers from loved ones back home.

The Sitara Market, on the outskirts of Peshawar, is some 100 metres from the border that separates the tribal regions of northwest Pakistan from the rest of the country.

Scores of markets like Sitara have sprung up, dealing in Western goods such as diapers, food and electronics either smuggled from, or headed into, Afghanistan.

In 2002, several small shops in the two-storey, rundown complex began selling looted goods from the several hundred container trucks that rumble across the border each day.

"American goods are No. 1," said one shopkeeper. "Everything is the best."

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

U.S. says sorry

- The U.S. apologized yesterday for a recent helicopter attack that killed two Pakistani soldiers at an outpost near the Afghan border.
- American pilots mistook the soldiers for insurgents that were pursuing, the U.S. said.
- The apology could pave the way for Pakistan to reopen a key border crossing that NATO uses to ship goods into landlocked Afghanistan.

Economy to strengthen: IMF

Combined, advanced economies such as the United States and Europe are forecast to grow

Royal likely strengthen the rest of this year and in 2011 as China and other emerging powers offset weakness in the United States and Europe.

Canada will continue to lead the United States in terms of growth, according to the latest outlook of the International Monetary Fund, but the IMF's estimates for both countries has been lowered since the previous outlook in July.

The IMF predicts the world economy will expand overall by 4.8 per cent this year and 4.2 per cent next year.

That would far surpass last year's 0.6 per cent decline, the worst since the Second World War ended in 1945. The IMF's forecast for worldwide growth this year is 0.2 percentage points more than its previous estimate in July.

The world lending agency estimates Canada's economy will expand by 3.1 per cent this year and 2.7 next, slower than its predictions in the summer.

2.6
The IMF predicts the U.S. economy will grow by only 2.6 per cent this year, below its previous estimate of 3.3 per cent, and by 2.3 per cent next year.

The IMF's forecast, released yesterday, points to lingering weakness in the United States and Europe after the worst recession since the Great Depression.

The agency says the global economy will require a balancing act: Countries with huge trade and budget deficits such as the United States will need to boost exports.

Costco's net income rises, but stock falls

Increased revenue from selling memberships and strength overseas helped push Costco Wholesale Corp.'s net income up 16 per cent in the fiscal fourth quarter.

Costco's shares fell 57 cents to $64.09 US in morning trading after revenue that came in shy of analysts' forecasts.

The nation's biggest warehouse club operator has seen the number of customers in its clubs grow as shoppers hunt for deals in the weak economy. Costco reported it earned $432 million, or 97 cents per share, for the period ended Aug. 29. That's up from $374 million, or 85 cents per share, a year ago. This beat analysts' estimates of 95 cents per share, according to Thomson Reuters.

New plant, new methods for Maple Leaf operation

Maple Leaf Foods is taking on broad operational changes, including plant consolidation and construction of a new prepared-meats factory starting in 2012, to improve its profitability and competitiveness.

The five-year strategic plan calls for the Toronto-based company, one of Canada's largest food producers, to increase spending on "strategic" initiatives — a total of $755 million from this year through 2013.

Initial changes will include pricing adjustments and tweaking of its promotional activities, as well as simplifying manufacturing in both its bakery and meat products divisions, the company said.

"This plan will enable Maple Leaf Foods to further address what we believe is a structural shift in currency, which has caused a productivity gap for Maple Leaf."

MAPLE LEAF PRESIDENT AND CEO MICHAEL MCCAIN

Maple Leaf said previously announced plans for its massive new bakery in Hamilton will also help the company's growth because it consolidates other facilities starting in the middle of next year.

The plan for a new prepared-meats factory hadn't been previously announced.

Maple Leaf says it hopes the changes will boost its earnings before interest and taxes margins by 75 per cent over the next five years. Maple Leaf has been undergoing changes for several years as it works to strengthen its position against competitors and move a Listeria-tainted meat recalled linked to its Toronto plant, which left 22 people dead in 2008.

New wardrobe bylaws

Worth mentioning

Ukraine's glamorous former prime minister is slamming a new government dress code as "laughable." Yulia Tymoshenko, known for lacy dresses and stilettos, said yesterday the dress code would prevent the Queen from entering cabinet premises.

"The Queen of England and (Libya's leader Moammar) Gadhafi, for instance, for sure would not have been allowed in the cabinet," Tymoshenko, who is now a top opposition leader, quipped at a news conference yesterday.

The code adopted this week calls on men working at the Cabinet of Ministers to wear mostly grey and dark blue suits and not wear the same suit to work two days in a row. Women are asked to stick to business suits and low-heeled shoes, and refrain from excessive makeup and jewelry.

Tymoshenko's stylish outfits and traditional Ukrainian braid have earned her a reputation as a glamour and fashion icon.

Some observers noted a new dress code was overdue for government offices and other institutions in Ukraine, where women often wear tight, low-cut dresses to work while men are often seen in the same outfit for days in a row. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Movies

Emma Stone will play Gwen Stacy in the next Spider-Man movie.

Stone will star opposite Andrew Garfield, who plays Spidey and alter-ego Peter Parker. The announcement was made Tuesday by Sony Pictures Entertainment Inc. and Columbia Pictures.

Director Marc Webb says the chemistry between Stone and Garfield was "stunning," which made the 21-year-old actress the "clear choice" to play Gwen.

Stone's screen credits include Easy A and Superbad.

The new movie will focus on a younger version of the superhero. It will be filmed in 3-D, and is scheduled for release July 3, 2012.

Tobey Maguire and director Sam Raimi, who made three blockbuster Spider-Man movies together, departed amid story and scheduling issues over the fourth movie.

A visit to Spider-Man Turn Off the Dark reveals a humming production.

Reznor and Fincher team up for Facebook movie Reznor was inspired to create a sinister soundtrack, with undertones of anxiety The Nine Inch Nails frontman has also formed a new band, How to Destroy Angels, and has an HBO series in the works

▶ Trent Reznor, singer of the band Nine Inch Nails, performs during the Music Openair Festival in St. Gallen, Switzerland, in June 2009.

Trent Reznor scores with The Social Network

Trent Reznor were both central figures in the heyday of music videos, their most significant collaboration has come years later — not on MTV but in one of the most acclaimed films of the year.

Reznor — with producer Atticus Ross — provides the dark score to The Social Network, Fincher's film about the rise of Facebook, the social networking behemoth.

Like Jonny Greenwood's score to Paul Thomas Anderson's There Will Be Blood, Reznor's soundtrack adds an ominous, unmistakable layer to The Social Network.

Reznor was pleased, he says, that his score "made it a shade darker."

Before coming together for The Social Network, Reznor and Fincher ran in similar circles.

"I don't want to make it sound like there was no sweat or agony, but it was so effortless. (Reznor) was able to intuit what it needed and come back with (QuickTime audio files) that we were like, 'Wow, that works.'"
DAVID FINCHER

In the late 1980s and 1990s, Fincher was one of the most sought after music video directors, while Reznor and his industrial one-man band, Nine Inch Nails, often worked with the form's best artists — notably for the video to Closer, directed by Mark Romanek.

Reznor and Fincher had tried many times to do a video project together. "We talked about him scoring a film," Fincher says. "We had talked around the subject many times."

Fincher didn't direct a Nine Inch Nails video until 2005 (Only), though he did use a version of Closer for the opening credits of his 1995 film Se7en. The two also discussed a Broadway adaptation of Fincher's 1999 movie Fight Club, which wasn't realized.

When Fincher approached Reznor last fall with the idea of scoring The Social Network, Reznor — looking for time off after just completing a Nine Inch Nails farewell tour and getting married — turned him down. He was also initially apprehensive.

"Any skepticism was based purely on hearing the sentence, 'It's a movie about Facebook,'" says Reznor, who was rapidly convinced by Aaron Sorkin's script and Fincher's intentions. "Any fear I had that it was trend-hopping or zietgeisty quickly evaporated."

Still, Reznor demurred, aiming to keep his pledge to himself for a hiatus. But five months later — still contemplating the film — he called Fincher to apologize, and Fincher told him he was still hoping he would do it.

With rough cuts of some scenes to view, Reznor began getting ideas and jumped in. He was inspired to create "something that's a bit sinister, something with tense undertones, something uncomfortable, with some anxiety."

Reznor recorded 16 different soundscapes or "vibes," thinking they were merely rough cuts. But Fincher cut them underneath the movie and found them just right. Supervising sound editor Ren Klyce also made significant contributions.

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The score

Fincher wanted the soundtrack to have a synthetic feel, with something organic to represent humanity — the piano.

- Hand Covers Bruise is among the most striking of the instrumental songs, which plays during the opening credits.
- In the Hall of the Mountain King soundtracks a regatta scene, and is a version of the Edvard Grieg track.

Fall TV falling flat?

Fall TV season devoid of new must-see shows Hawaii Five-0 only newbie to crack Top 20 list

Two weeks into a new television season, and it's clear there are no must-see new programs.

CBS' Monday night remake of Hawaii Five-0 was the only new program to crack the Nielsen Co.'s list of the 20 most popular programs last week.

Its audience of 12.7 million viewers was down from the 14.2 million people who saw the premiere — not unusual, but not the sign of a show taking off, either.

Already, two programs have been cancelled: Fox's Lone Star and ABC's My Generation. The latter had only 3.8 million viewers last week, deadly for a Thursday night, and no help to Grey's Anatomy, which followed it.

Other programs — NBC's Jimmy Smits vehicle Outlaw, ABC's procedural The Whole Truth and the Fox comedy Running Wilde — need to start showing progress soon, or they could face the same fate.

As the most stable network, CBS has had the most success getting people to try out their shows. The comedy Mike & Molly is off to a solid start on Monday nights, and Tom Selleck's Blue Bloods has done well on Fridays, usually a tough night for TV viewing.

ABC's No Ordinary Family opened to an audience of 10.7 million viewers last week, a solid start.

Last week's favourites were familiar to viewers: dancing, football and NCIS.

CBS averaged 11.9 million viewers in prime time (7.2 rating, 12 share) and also won among the 18-to-49-year-old demographic for the second straight week. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Glee cast has surpassed the Beatles for the most appearances on the Billboard Hot 100 chart by a non-solo act.

The cast of the Fox television musical series about a high school glee club has six debuts on the chart this week. That gives it a total of 75 songs on the chart to the Beatles' 71.

The show's soundtrack got a boost after last week's episode featuring the music of Britney Spears.

Elvis Presley still leads overall with 108 songs to chart on the Hot 100. He's followed by James Brown with 91, then Glee. The Beatles are sixth, behind Ray Charles and Aretha Franklin. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Family revives Charlie Brown

As Charlie Brown and Snoopy turn 60, the family of creator Schulz plans for the gang's future

Good grief, Charlie Brown. The world has certainly changed since the Peanuts were born.

In 60 years, the U.S. sent a man to the moon, survived the Cold War and now has one of the worst economic funks in decades.

All that time, Charles Schulz's imaginary gang has been a fixture of newspaper funny pages and grainy holiday TV specials.

Now, his family is working to keep Snoopy, Lucy and the rest alive for generations to come.

A handful of new projects is in the works. The first new animated film in five years is set for release next spring called, Happiness is a Warm Blanket, Charlie Brown.

ABC just signed on for five more years of airing Charlie Brown holiday specials. A new social media game began on Facebook and Twitter last month to Countdown to the Great Pumpkin, and the comic strip has made its way to a popular gaming website for millions of children.

The enduring appeal is no surprise, said Lee Mendelson, who produced the films with Schulz for more than 40 years.

Schulz had said "there's always going to be a market for innocence in this country," Mendelson said Friday as a photograph of Schulz at his drawing board was hung at the Smithsonian's National Portrait Gallery. Schulz died in 2000.

"The innocence and the humour that he brought, I think, helped us as a nation through many bad times," Mendelson said.

Peanuts comics, which first appeared in 1950 in the St. Paul Pioneer Press, still appear in 2,200 newspapers in 75 different countries.

Newspaper publisher E.W. Scripps Co. sold the licensing unit that controls Peanuts and other comics in April to Iconix Brand Group Inc. — partially owned by the Schulz family — for $175 million.

Jeannie Schulz, the cartoonist's widow, said she often hears from people about how the characters reflect their own feelings. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

New projects

- The Peanuts Collection, a new book out later this month, will trace the comic strip's history.
- Great Pumpkin Island is being released on Poptropica, a gaming website that caters to millions of tweens.

Finger Eleven for guitar rock success

Finger Eleven
Album: Life Turns Electric
Label: Wind-up/Sony
●●●
It's hard to believe this band started out in Burlington, Ont., as an edgy bunch of punks called the Rainbow Butt Monkeys. A name change and two monster hits (One Thing and Paralyzer) have given Finger Eleven the taste of Top-10 success and the band hopes to have another drink from the cup with the new single Living in a Dream. The song is so close to the Paralyzer template, one song could bleed into another. It's cynical to think Paralyzer fans will come rushing back for more of the same. But, hey, it always worked for Nickelback. Still there's enough distinctive guitar rock on the album in songs like Any Moment Now and Pieces Fit to keep Finger Eleven's credibility in tact. The most interesting track here is the closer, a gentle rolling song called Love's What You Left Me With.
Outstanding track: Love's What You Left Me With
● GRAHAM ROCKINGHAM

KT Tunstall
Album: Tiger Suit
Label: EMI
●●●
It didn't take long for KT Tunstall to shed her one-hit-wonder tag — 2007's Drastic Fantastic was solid folk-rock follow-up to her debut hit Eye to the Telescope and the disc's massive song Suddenly I See. While her third record builds on her acoustic pop sound, she's clearly trying to expand her comfort zone by adding electro riffs and dirtier rock guitars. It doesn't always work — Difficulty's fluffy chorus and distorted riffs are distracting — but when she sticks her rollicking folk tunes she shines.
Outstanding track: Push that Knot Away
● BRYAN BORZYKOWSKI

Toby Keith
Album: Bullets in the Gun
Label: Universal
●●½
Toby Keith sticks to tried-and-true country formulas on his 15th studio album. The title track, Bullets in the Gun, is a Bonny-and-Clyde style rocker that ends, predictably, with blood in the dirt. The redneck clichés flow like stale beer on a hot cinderblock porch in the tongue-and-cheek Trailerhood and his take on outlaw truckers, Drive It On Home, has been done too many times before. Keith is best when he's pokin' fun at his own macho image on Get Out of My Car or pulling the heart strings in the mushy, but compelling, Kissin' in the Rain.
Outstanding track: Kissin' in the Rain

Justin Bieber doesn't necessarily need help picking up girls, but he wouldn't mind having Robert Pattinson by his side, according to Hollyscoop.

How about that for an opening line?" In the months that followed Alexander McQueen's suicide in February, the fashion world was abuzz with speculation about the future of the house. But following Sarah Burton's brilliant debut this week at the helm of the label put any rumours about the house's future to rest.

GIOVANNA BATTAGLIA

The final word from Paris

KENYA HUNT
STYLE@METRONEWS.CA
METRO WORLD NEWS IN LONDON

In the international parade of catwalks, Paris always is the definitive fashion week.

The shows seemed to overwhelmingly fall into two categories: structured '70s-influenced shapes or light and airy fluidity.

In part, the disco-era work of Yves Saint Laurent partly influenced the '70s feeling in the air from the flared trousers at Sonia Rykiel and Akris to, of course, the ruffled dresses and le smoking reinterpretations at Yves Saint Laurent.

Louis Vuitton ended the week on this note with an extravagant study in the idea of camp with glam, opulent, shimmery dresses in bold jewel tone colours. Meanwhile, a lighter, airy school of thought also emerged this week through the fluid, diaphanous skirts and dresses at Lanvin, Rochas, Stella McCartney and Chloé to name just a few.

1 STELLA MCCARTNEY

With so few designers actually paying attention the seasons they're designing for (half of Spring/Summer '11 could be worn in autumn and winter), it's nice to see a collection that seems genuinely tailored for warm weather.

McCartney's pastel blazers and high-waist cropped trousers were just light enough for a spring day in the office. Meanwhile her jumpsuits with thigh-high slits seemed designed with a summer breeze in mind.

Other standouts included a series of dresses in bold graphic prints of oversized citrus fruits.

2 CHLOÉ

Change is good. Just when it seemed fashion was giving us blush and camel overload, Hannah MacGibbon took a departure from the colours palette she helped make famous.

With an audience filled with editors wearing (you guessed it) camel and blush, Hannah MacGibbon sent models out in crisp whites, black and taupe with a single moment of red. The colour palette wasn't the only major change.

Her trademark '70s silhouettes were replaced with clean and thoroughly modern minimalist looks: a series of delicately pleated dresses that hit the knee and mid-calf and trouser and long sleeve tee pairings that had a note of restraint.

MacGibbon also explored transparency, which we've seen a lot of this season, in sheer, tulle ballerina-like dresses.

3 YVES SAINT LAURENT

This runway season, many designers have referenced the work of the man, Yves Saint Laurent. So it goes without saying that the house, Yves Saint Laurent, would need to be the definitive voice on these ideas.

Stefano Pilati's collection, intelligently and beautifully reinvented the masters trademarks including a smoking tuxedo jacket, the colours orange, longish ruffled dresses and more with strong results.

They were exactly the kind of vibrant, feminine clothes that Pilati needed to show after last season's lukewarmly received, clinical looks. They captured the trends of the season in a memorable way.

4 CHANEL

Always known for his mastery of the theatrical in fashion, Karl Lagerfeld staged the ultimate garden party with models walking through an elaborate runway set modeled after the landscaped greenery of Versailles.

The looks, easily the most sublime of the week, ranged from ethereal (fantastical, couture-like tiered gowns with tulle and feathers) to whimsical (tweed suits with frayed edges.) At the end of a long week of shows, the collection was a burst of energy.

Fashion going viral to generate buzz

With Fashion Week season wrapping up, the runways of the world's fashion capitals are once again featuring designs for the coming spring and summer.

Yet for showcasing what's hot and buzzworthy in the world of style, the catwalk is no longer the only game in town.

Through short films and digital media, designers, fashion and beauty companies are diversifying the ways in which they transmit their vision and creations to the masses.

What's more, they're providing stylewatchers with the chance to take an extended look at their offerings, beyond the often rapid-fire glimpses on the runway or in more conventional ads.

Deanna Devitt, department head of fashion design at the University of the Fraser Valley in British Columbia, sees the embrace of digital technology as a shift that's "humanizing the industry" and helping to forge and nurture ties to consumers. For example, she notes she's seeing that a lot of designers are not just streaming videos, but asking for input.

"It's adding value to the traditional forms of media, but I do see this as being a wave of the future," she said.

"I really do see that reaching broader audiences, getting your product out there is going to help you with sales and connecting with your customer."

SUITE TALK

METRO VANCOUVER
HOME@METRONEWS.CA

Like a phoenix emerging from the fire, Quattro has emerged from the ashes with its multi-family development in Surrey.

After a massive blaze destroyed the under-construction Quattro2, and caused damage to Quattro1 a year ago, both buildings have been rebuilt — and a third development has been announced.

Quattro3 is currently underway with prices starting at $149,900, and more than 50 of the homes are priced below $200,000. Suites in the five-storey development will range in size from 426 to 998 square feet, and are a mix of junior one bedroom, one bedroom, one bedroom plus den, two bedrooms, and "Yaletown Edition" loft suites.

The building will also feature an amenity room complete with exercise equipment and rubberized sports flooring.

▶ Each home in Quattro3 offers buyers granite counter tops, stainless steel appliances, and double glazed windows.

Vancouver is a buyer's sure bet

Homes sales appear to be stabilizing in Vancouver despite a drop from last September and prices are on the rise again, statistics show.

Numbers from the Real Estate Board of Greater Vancouver (REBGV) show that 2,220 residential properties were sold throughout Greater Vancouver in Sept. 2010, a 0.8-per-cent rise from Aug. 2010, though still a 37.6 per cent decrease from the 3,559 total homes that were sold in September of 2009.

Jake Moldowan, president of the REBGV, says the drop is not as alarming as it look, given that sales numbers this month were a 0.8-per-cent increase over August 2010 and overall are trending healthy.

"The numbers can be misleading — September 2009 was an anomaly, we just had a smoking hot month for sales then. Over the past year sales have returned back to very normal, positive levels," Moldowan said.

Compared to April's all-time record high of $593,419 prices dipped just 2.7 per cent to $577,174 this month, though when compared to Sept. 2009 the prices have overall increased by 5.5 per cent.

Vancouver's west side and Richmond are still trending strong, Moldowan said, the number of foreign buyers within the city has increased dramatically since the city's positive exposure during the Olympics.

"Typically one-and-a-half to two per cent of our sales are attributed to foreign buyers — in August our numbers were around four per cent and in September they were about six per cent. There's no question in this buyer's market the world is thinking Vancouver is a great place to buy," Moldowan said. RAFAEL BRUSILOW

Decorate for the harvest

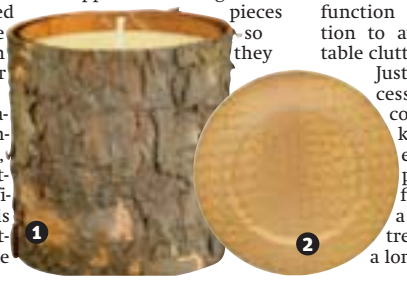
HOMES IN STYLE

HEATHER BUCHAN
HOME@METRONEWS.CA

Thanksgiving is the time for family and friends to gather around a harvest table to enjoy a hearty meal and good conversation. And nothing sets the mood better than a seasonally decorated tabletop. Here are some quick tips on how to dress your table to impress.

According to Canadian interior designer Jane Lockhart, host of the W Network's Colour Confidential, one of this fall's biggest decorating trends is the use of natural materials. Think wooden bowls filled with pinecones and acorns, woven placemats and candlesticks wrapped with raffia.

With that in mind, Lockhart suggests making a Thanksgiving centre piece statement by filling a large bowl or basket with mini-pumpkins, gourds, and green and red apples. "Avoid high centre pieces so they don't block people's views across the table," she says, adding, "I also like to add a decorative runner in a sage green or brown to ground the table overall."



As with any type of decorating, the key is to strike the right balance. "Don't add too much to the table so that it's difficult for people to move or spread out for dinner," warns Lockhart. "Think function before decoration to avoid too much table clutter."

Just a few table accessories in fall colours — napkins, plate chargers, a runner, place cards, a few candles and a beautiful centre piece — can go a long way.

Ideas for your kitchen?

You've been invited into her TV kitchen for years Now, as a first-time homebuyer, you can make your new kitchen look like Martha Stewart's

DECOR MOMENT

KARL LOHNES
HOME@METRONEWS.CA

Last week I was invited to New York City to preview the latest product from Martha Stewart; her new collection of kitchen cabinetry for KraftMaid Cabinetry, which launches in Home Depot stores this month.

The kitchen styles are reminiscent of Martha's own kitchens and the ones you've seen on her television shows and in her magazine. They are casual, simple and detail oriented; just what you would expect from this queen of organization and style.

They were everything I expected; quality, great looks and very on-trend finishes that will last a long time. What I was not expecting — but what first-time homebuyers who want to upgrade their kitchen will like — is the affordable price. The cabinetry is at entry-level pricing for semi custom kitchens, and starts at $125 per linear foot. I also like that she is offering us a first in affordable kitchens; the painted farmhouse looking style with features that are normally found in high-end kitchens.

Stewart was very charming and forthcoming about her ideas of the perfect kitchen; she loves quality, great organizational options. Beautiful details like shelf brackets, reproduction hardware and durable stone looking counter tops.

Once installed, you will have a classically-designed kitchen that will last a lifetime.

▶ Martha Stewart.

Many looks

The kitchens come in 20 door styles, creating hundreds of finishes and looks. The most wonderful accents are brackets, painted cabinetry and great looking hardware; options that help to create the ultimate farmhouse kitchen; a look that has been lacking for a long time. Martha has teamed up with Corian for a great selection of counter tops; all her distinct counter top styles resemble stone counters but for a much lower price. Classic hardware styles that are reproduced in iron, polished brass and nickel finishes are right on track with the trends of today.

Attic insulation is key

According to a recent TD Canada Trust survey, most Canadians are willing to pay more for greener homes. While building a brand new eco-friendly house is an option, there are many ways to make your existing home more sustainable, including energy efficiency renovations. Quick and easy do-it-yourself projects, like re-insulating your attic, will help with this goal.

"Creating a more sustainable and energy-efficient home is easier than many homeowners realize," says David Flood, insulation expert at Owens Corning. "Fixing gaps or drafts in windows, upgrading the caulking around doors or re-insulating your attic are a few easy ways to reduce your home's energy consumption. Best of all, these are all projects you can handle yourself."

How? It's easy. To begin with, install PINK FIBERGLAS batt insulation or PROPINK Blown Insulation to meet the recommended standard of R-50, and save on your heating and cooling costs.

How to pay less for home insurance

Shopping for a home can be a fun experience, but with the numerous associated expenses it can be stressful as well. One item that homebuyers rarely consider is the cost to insure the potential new home.

"Things like having to replace some flooring or kitchen cabinets may sway a homebuyer's decision, but the cost of insuring the home is rarely considered," states insurance expert Wayne Ross from Aviva Canada.

"What many homebuyers don't realize is that by considering a couple of additional factors in their buying decision they can easily save a few hundred dollars on their insurance costs every year."

Ross suggests looking into a few key factors before making the big purchase:

• Location: If you live in a neighbourhood with a low crime rate you'll pay a lower premium.

• Proximity to fire protection: Homeowners who live close to a fire hydrant or fire station will pay lower premiums as a result of decreased fire risk.

• Heating: Do you use oil, gas or electric? If you heat with oil, or own a wood stove, you'll likely also burn more money on your insurance premium.

• Wiring: Do you have breakers or fuses? Old wiring? Low electricity flow coming into the house? All affect your insurance costs and eligibility for insurance. Your insurer might require upgrades.

• Roof: If your roof has not been updated in the last 20 years, you might not qualify for insurance until it is re-shingled.

• Other factors like the existence of a monitored security and fire alarm system or a swimming pool will also factor into your insurance costs.

Before you make the final decision on the purchase of a new home, talk to your insurance broker or company to determine insurance costs. Additional information can be found at avivacanada.com.

Don't lose any sleep over your mortgage needs

▶ Is home ownership on the horizon for you?

No matter how you slice it, there are a lot of questions when it comes to mortgages
The best way to cope is to go into it very well-informed

Taking out a mortgage is a big financial commitment — probably one of the biggest you'll ever make. From deciding whether to go with a fixed or variable rate, to determining how long you'll need to pay off your mortgage, to figuring out how much you can afford to borrow and how much money you'll need to buy and maintain your home, there are many factors to consider.

The Financial Consumer Agency of Canada (FCAC), offers online tools and material to make your research easier. You'll find tips and calculators to help you avoid stretching your budget to the limit when you buy your home.

There's also information on areas you may not have considered: How to pay off your mortgage faster, how to borrow on your home equity and what to consider when renewing and renegotiating your mortgage.

Sleep well knowing you've made the right choices

A mortgage is only one of your financial commitments. You may want to travel, start a family or spend money on entertainment. You may also want to save money for retirement, major purchases or post-secondary education.

You can start with our Mortgage Qualifier Tool to help you determine whether you can qualify for a home mortgage based on your income and expenses. The Mortgage Calculator Tool works out your mortgage payment and provides you with a mortgage payment schedule. The calculator also shows how much money and how many years you can save by making prepayments.

A taste of Taiwan

LUNCH RUSH

JOAN CHANG
FOOD@METRONEWS.CA

I spent last week eating my way through Taiwan, a trip you'll be reading about in coming days. With Taiwan's National Day on Sunday, there's perfectly delicious Taiwanese food to be had right here.

Like the classic beef noodle soup dish ($6.50) at Wang's Noodle House. A good beef noodle can be the subject of heated debate, if my relatives are any indication. But even they would agree the meaty, slightly spicy broth ranks among the best. Get house-made noodles thick (the way I like 'em) or thin, or with vermicelli or rice noodles. The beef brisket is cooked till the tendons are melting. The cilantro, green onion and pickled vegetable toppings are perfect to cut through the richness.

JOAN CHANG/FOR METRO CANADA

▶ House-made noodles

Order the small version. The large ($7.50) should be left to sumo wrestlers.

Plus, that way you can order sides, like the fried pork dumplings ($5.50). The open structure still captures the juices left behind from the cooking meat, which the thick dumpling skin soaks up. It's a pouch of savoury heaven.

Maple stuffed turkey breast

▶ Ideal for a smaller crowd this Thanksgiving.

Yields: 4–6 servings

Preparation:

1. Preheat oven to 160 C (325 F). In a large pan, heat butter and saute onion until transparent. Add garlic, sage and cranberries. Saute until cranberries are softened. Stir in rice, season with salt and pepper and set aside.
2. With skin side down, flatten turkey breast with the flat side of a meat mallet or a rolling pin until meat is of fairly uniform thickness.
3. In a bowl, combine maple syrup and butter well. Spread 50 ml (1/4 cup) of the butter mixture on the inside of the turkey breast. Spoon stuffing mixture on breast leaving a 5-cm (2-inch) border around the sides. Starting at one end, fold turkey breast around the stuffing, fully enclosing the stuffing, and secure with string or skewers.
4. Lay carrots in the bottom of a lightly oiled roasting pan. Place turkey breast seam side down on carrots and rub with another 50 ml (1/4 cup) of the butter mixture. Season with salt, pepper and sage, then cover and bake for 30 minutes. Uncover and continue to bake for 1 hour or until meat thermometer registers 83 C (180 F).
5. Let turkey rest for 5 minutes. In the meantime, heat remaining butter-maple syrup mixture on medium heat until mixture begins to boil and starts to reduce. When thickened, remove from heat. Remove string or skewers from turkey breast and slice in 2.5-cm (1-inch) thick slices. Serve with roasted carrots and maple sauce.

Halladay throws second-ever playoff no-hitter

Tape a debut.

Roy Halladay threw the second no-hitter in post-season history, leading the Philadelphia Phillies over the Cincinnati Reds 4-0 in Game 1 of the NL division series yesterday.

Don Larsen is the only other pitcher to throw a post-season no-hitter. He threw a perfect game for the New York Yankees in the 1956 World Series against Brooklyn. The 54th anniversary of Larsen's gem is tomorrow.

"It's surreal, it really is," Halladay said. "I just wanted to pitch here, to pitch in the post-season. To go out and have a game like that, it's a dream come true."

Halladay took the Year of the Pitcher into the post-season. The excitement spread beyond Citizens Bank Park — the last two outs were shown on the video board at Target Field, where the Twins were preparing to play the Yankees, and Minnesota fans cheered.

The all-star right-hander, who tossed a perfect game at Florida May 29, dominated the Reds with a sharp fastball and a devastating slow curve in his first playoff start.

Halladay allowed only one runner, walking Jay Bruce on a full count with two outs in the fifth, and struck out eight.

Halladay spent 12 seasons with Toronto, far from the post-season. A trade last off-season brought him to the defending two-time NL champions.

With a sellout crowd standing in the ninth and chanting "Let's Go, Doc!" Halladay received a thunderous ovation when he jogged to the mound to start the inning.

"This is what you come here for," Halladay said. "It's a good team, they know how to win. ... It's been a great year, a fun year, we obviously have a ways to go."

The Vancouver Canucks acquired Andrew Peters from the Florida Panthers yesterday in exchange for veteran forward Darcy Hordichuk.

Peters, a six-foot-four 247-pounder, has seven points and 650 penalty minutes in 229 NHL games with Buffalo and New Jersey.

He signed a two-year deal with the Devils last season, but spent most of it in the AHL and was bought out. He then signed a two-way contract in Florida.

Hordichuk, who's also 30, has 33 points and 998 penalty minutes in 431 NHL games with five teams, including 60 games with Florida over parts of the 2002-03 and 2003-04 seasons.

Last season: 54-15-13, 121 points, 1st seed in the East, lost in first round to Montreal.
Breakdown:
Revenge is word in the U.S. capital, but redemption is a better description of what Washington wants after blowing a 3-1 lead and losing in seven games to the Canadiens. They needed far better team play, including from star Alex Ovechkin, which could not be driven home better than by the frustration they encountered against Montreal. No major changes were made, other than to drop veteran Jose Theodore and go with young goalies Semyon Varlamov and Michal Neuvirth.

Philadelphia Flyers
Last season: 41-35-6, 88 points, 7th seed in the East, lost Stanley Cup final to Chicago.
Breakdown:
They only made the playoffs by beating the New York Rangers in a shootout in the final game of the season, but the team that went to the final was a better indication of the Flyers' talent and depth than the up-and-down regular-season crew.

Vancouver Canucks
Last season: 49-28-5, 103 points, 3rd seed in the West, lost in second round to Chicago.
Breakdown:
There's good reason for the optimism in Vancouver. New additions Dan Hamhuis and Keith Ballard will bolster the blueline, which should benefit Roberto Luongo and freshman backup Cory Schneider. It sets up as an important season for Luongo, who relinquished the captaincy over the summer so that he could focus all his energy on preparing for games. No excuses now. The Canucks were second in league scoring a year ago, led by Hart Trophy winner Henrik Sedin, and should continue to have a pretty potent attack.

San Jose Sharks
Last season: 51-20-11, 113 points, 1st seed in the West, lost in conference final to Chicago.
Breakdown:
The biggest change comes in goal, where Antti Niemi and Antero Niittymaki have taken over for the departed Evgeni Nabokov. GM Doug Wilson is banking on the duo pushing the team over the top — hardly a stretch given that Niemi won a Stanley Cup last season in Chicago.

Los Angeles Kings
Last season: 46-27-9, 101 points, 6th seed in the West, lost in first round to Vancouver.
Breakdown:
This is a team with a young core that has been trending in the right direction the past couple seasons. The brightest star of them all is defenceman Drew Doughty, who won't turn 21 until December but is a legitimate Norris Trophy candidate. He starts the season in a pairing with veteran Willie Mitchell — one of the team's few off-season additions — and can expect to log major minutes. Centre Anze Kopitar could threaten the 100-point barrier.

Detroit Red Wings
Last season: 44-24-14, 102 points, 5th seed in the West, lost in second round to San Jose.
Breakdown:
Break out the Advil. With a roster featuring nine players 35 or older, the Wings are virtually assured of leading the league in wear and tear. But there's at least a couple future Hall of Famers among that group — Nicklas Lidstrom and Mike Modano, who decided to sign with his hometown team over the summer rather than retire.

THE CANADIAN PRESS

Boston Bruins
Last season: 39-30-13, 91 points, 6th seed in East, lost in second round to Philadelphia.
Breakdown:
The loss of top centre Marc Savard to concussion symptoms may be offset by the addition of scoring winger Nathan Horton from Florida and a big rookie year from second overall draft pick Tyler Seguin. Happily for the Bruins, they are deep at centre with Patrice Bergeron and David Krejci, who is looking to rebound from only 17 goals last season, with perhaps Seguin or Blake Wheeler on the third line. With Tuukka Rask backed up by veteran Tim Thomas, Boston is set in goal.

Pittsburgh Penguins
Last season: 47-28-7, 101 points, 4th seed in East, lost in second round to Montreal.
Breakdown:
The loss of big centre Jordan Staal for an undetermined period with a foot injury puts a damper on the 2009 Cup champions' move from the Igloo to the 18,087-seat Consol Energy Centre. They also lost veteran winger Bill Guerin, although the departure of power-play anchor Sergei Gonchar was offset by the signing of Paul Martin.

What fans will be talking about

A new NHL season brings a number of storylines that will play out over the next six months Here's a look at a few that are worth charting

Halak Pays Price:

The story

The Montreal Canadiens' decision to trade playoff hero Jaroslav Halak to St. Louis and keep Carey Price as their top goaltender will be followed closely all season. Fans have already noted every pre-season win by Halak while Price has slowly wound into form in Montreal.

The angle

If Halak excels and Price struggles, there will be calls for GM Pierre Gauthier's head. Price has already heard a mix of boos and cheers at the Bell Centre.

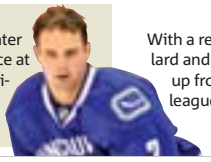
Hawks Repeat?

No team has won back-to-back Stanley Cups since the Detroit Red Wings in 1997 and 1998, although the Wings came within a Game 7 goal of doing it again in 2009. Now it is Chicago's turn to give it a try.

Being well over the $59.4-million US salary cap forced Chicago to let go of forwards Kris Versteeg, Ben Eager, Andrew Ladd, Dustin Byfuglien and Adam Burish, defenceman Brent Sopel, and goalie Antti Niemi.

Canuck Drought:

The Vancouver Canucks enter the season with the best chance at winning Canada's first championship since 1993.



With a retooled defence that includes Keith Ballard and Dan Hamhuis, and the same weapons up front that made the Canucks one of the league's highest-scoring teams, there is reason for hope in Vancouver.

Headshot Rule:

With a new penalty called illegal checking to the head in the rulebook, it will be interesting to see if there are fewer headshots on the ice.

The new penalty is a major and focuses on blindside hits where the primary point of impact is the head. How long before one is called?

Rookie Race:

The race for the Calder Trophy might take place entirely in Edmonton. Hotshot rookies Taylor Hall, Jordan Eberle and Magnus Pajaarvi have all cracked the Oilers roster and will no doubt push each other.

With three high-profile rookies suiting up for the Oilers, the race for the Calder is bound to be a major focus this season.

Staying in Phoenix?

Would a new owner for the Phoenix Coyotes please stand up? The NHL has been running the once-bankrupt team for a year and a half, and commissioner Gary Bettman is clearly losing some patience.

If no one steps forward to purchase the Coyotes by Dec. 31, the league has the right to start looking at other places to move the team. It's reasonable to assume that Winnipeg would be high on that list.

4. BRIAN BAHR/GETTY IMAGES

1 Jonathan Toews, Chicago Blackhawks: With a couple key players gone, the captain's leadership will be called on as the Blackhawks try to defend their title.

2 Alex Ovechkin, Washington Capitals: Another gaudy statistical season is virtually assured for the flashiest player in the NHL, but his year is bound to be measured by what kind of team success Washington has with him as a leader.

3 Ilya Kovalchuk, New Jersey Devils: The Devils paid a heavy price to keep the Russian winger, so Kovalchuk will be expected to deliver the goods. GM Lou Lamiorello and the entire organization are looking to recapture the post-season success that has eluded them in recent years.

4 Antti Niemi, San Jose Sharks: Evgeni Nabokov was never able to deliver a championship for the talented Sharks. That job now falls to Niemi, who brings a Blackhawks Stanley Cup ring with him to Northern California.

Today's horoscope

For today's crossword answers and for expanded horoscopes, go to metronews.ca

♈ Aries March 21-April 20 You will find it easier to be patient with people now there is a new moon in the partnership area of your chart. Yes, certain individuals can be deeply irritating sometimes but they're only human.

♉ Taurus April 21-May 21 Both at home and at work you would be wise to proceed on the assumption that others are telling you only half the story – and that it's the other half you need to know.

♊ Gemini May 22-June 21 You seem to be making heavy work of something that is really quite simple — and doing far too much of it by yourself. Today's new moon will give a boost to creative activities.

♋ Cancer June 22-July 22 Something you found such a challenge earlier in the year will come easy to you now. Your outlook on life has changed and that has enabled you to respond to a more positive set of cosmic vibrations.

♌ Leo July 23-Aug.23 If you have not yet planned your next vacation get on to it now as the new moon in the travel area of your chart gives you some great ideas.

♍ Virgo Aug. 24- Sept. 22 You seem to have got your values a bit mixed up of late. If you are going to get them untangled the first thing you must do is ask yourself what is most important to you: your material or your emotional wellbeing.

♎ Libra Sept. 23-Oct. 23 No matter how many times you have clashed with people you must patch things up. The new moon in your sign promises a new beginning, but you've got to work at it.

♏ Scorpio Oct. 24-Nov. 22 Do you finish what you started, or do you give up on it and focus on something new? Only you can decide but if you have not completed a project by now perhaps it's not meant to be.

♐ Sagittarius Nov. 23-Dec. 21 Today's new moon signals the start of an enjoyable phase, one that will last for the next two weeks and maybe longer. Friendships are under excellent stars, so get out there and mingle.

♑ Capricorn Dec. 22-Jan. 20 You should find it easier to get along with colleagues today. You may have had differences in the past but now you understand you need to work together to reach your goal.

♒ Aquarius Jan. 21-Feb. 18 You will come out of your shell over the next 24 hours. That's good. There is so much you have to offer the world – it would be a crime to deprive it of your genius.

♓ Pisces Feb. 19-March 20 Your nerves may be a bit frayed but the new moon will convince you there is no need to get upset. Whatever it is you are fretting about it will come right in the end – it always doe. ● SALLY BROMPTON
